OLD TIME CUSTOMS

Dr. Abbott Gives an Interesting Talk Before the Historical Society

A very interesting paper on "Old Time Customs" was read by Dr. Charles E. Abbott. Beginning with the early settlers he described their homes, the great chimney and fireplace in which were burned the four-foot logs, the "settle" in front of the fire. At night when the family retired, the fire was carefully covered for the night; if it happened by mischance to go out, coals would be borrowed from the nearest neighbor or a tinder-box would be employed. Friction matches did not come into use until about 1832.

In regard to cooking Dr. Abbott spoke in part as follows:

"The cooking was done over and before an open fire. Boiling was done by suspending kettles from pot hooks, which were upon the crane, of different lengths to accommodate the height of the fire. An adjustable hook, which was called a 'trammel,' was not infrequently used. In early times meat was cooked by passing through it an iron rod called a spit. This was laid on the andirons in front of the fire and by repeated turning and exposing on all sides the meat was evenly cooked. Another method was to suspend the meat or poultry by a line before the fire. By twisting the line hard it would slowly unwind. Of course some one had to be in frequent attendance to twist the cord and usually it was a child. A dish was placed underneath to catch the drippings. Sometimes the line would burn off, and have to be replaced before the cooking could be completed. Later, meats and poultry were roasted in a tin kitchen. This utensil was first introduced about 1800. It was of cylindrical form, made of tin, two or more feet in length, and fifteen inches in diameter, open in front. The meat was placed upon a spit, one end of which was passed through a hole made in the end, and the other passed through a slot in the other end so as to suspend the meat in the center of the enclosed space. It was then placed before the fire, the bright inner surface reflecting the heat powerfully upon whatever was to be cooked. On the end of the spit was a crank which could be so adjusted as to hold it in any position, and by frequent turnings the cooking would be done evenly on all sides. There was a door on the back which could be opened to allow the basting to be done. The gravy fell into the bottom where there was a small spout at one end, and by tipping this up, it could be turned out into a dish.

"Potatoes and eggs were roasted by wrapping them in wet paper, placing them in ashes, and then covering them with hot coals. In half an hour they would be well cooked. Potatoes cooked in this way, with a little salt, were of a very nice flavor. "At first, bread was cooked in a Dutch oven, which was suspended over the fire. It was a shallow cast-iron kettle, with a cover of the same material having a raised edge. The food to be cooked was placed in it, and the cover then filled with live coals. It was used for both baking and frying. Later, and before cooking stoves came into use, bread, pies, etc., were baked before an open fire in a Yankee baker. This was a tin box, twenty inches or so in length, inclining forward about twenty-two and one-half degrees and set on legs. It had a perpendicular back four or five inches in width; the top was similar in shape to the bottom; and a sheet-iron bake-pan was suspended between. When the baker was set before the fire at a suitable distance the bright inclined surfaces, top and bottom, reflected the heat with great power upon the food to be cooked. This Yankee baker first came into use about 1830. Bannock, made from corn meal mixed with water and spread about an inch in thickness upon a tin plate or wooden trencher, was baked before the fire by setting it on an incline, the top a couple of inches back from the bottom. This article of food was copied after the Indians, and when baked and made into milk toast it was considered a dish fit to be 'set before a king'."

Stoves were known as early as 1700, but did not come into general use for some time, and cooking-stoves were not in the country towns of Essex County much before 1840. Every home had its brick oven, which was later replaced by the cast-iron oven and the Franklin fireplace. Clothing was made from flax and wool produced on the farm and woven into articles of apparel. Many women were capable of taking the wool from the backs of the sheep and putting it through all the necessary processes to bring out the finished garment. From the flax which was grown came the home-spun sheets, table-cloths, dresses, handkerchiefs, etc.

The tallow candle was the commonest form of light supplemented by the blazing fire. Most of the candles were dips, getting the name from the fact that they were repeatedly dipped in the hot tallow until they were of the required size, and some were run in moulds. A light was also made by burning sperm oil and lard oil, or from camphene. Kerosene oil, or coal oil, as it was first called, first began to be used about 1855.

In addition to candle-making there was also the art of soap-making, which was for the most part disliked and dreaded by the women. Poor ashes or weak lye when put with the accumulated grease would result in poor soap, and soap-making day was a day of considerable anxiety. Cloths were not in use very extensively before 1800, and watches were rare and expensive. The common way of telling time was by noon marks and sun dials.

Among other customs mentioned was that of election of selectmen by "pricking." A number of names were written on a sheet of paper and passed around, each man pricking a hole against the name of the candidate he favored. The man with the largest number of pinholes was the first selectman and so down the list.

In closing, Dr. Abbott wishing to show the thrift and economy of the old New England settler gave the following interesting statement of a citizen of Norridgewock, Me., when he was ninety years old.

"He served an apprenticeship of eight years until he was twenty-one; then bought on credit a tract of fifty acres in the primeval woods. On eight acres he felled the trees and left them through the winter. In April he spent three weeks in clearing off the logs by burning, and clearing as well as possible by hand-work three acres; these he sowed with wheat and rye, buying the seed on credit. He hired a yoke of oxen for one day and did the harrowing he could in that short time, grubbing around the stumps for two more days with a hoe. The crop grew, as did all others on similar soil, amazingly. The two bushels of seed wheat yielded fifty-two bushels, the bushel of rye thirty bushels; and on his other five acres, among the fallen trees, he planted corn and raised 128 bushels.

"He adds, 'When I could leave my work on my new land I worked out haying and other work, made shoes in the fall and taught school in the winter, paid for my board and some clothing, but husbanded my resources to pay for my land. I continued to clear up four acres each year until I had cleared the fifty acres, planted an orchard, and erected suitable farm buildings and fences.'

"He filled during his life many positions of trust and profit, and did many and varied good deeds. It is an interesting example of the value of honorable economy and thrift; a typical New England picture, with a certain vigor and stimulus about it that makes it pleasing."

Mr. Tetler for Senator

Among the contests of interest to Andover which will be decided at the polls next Tuesday, is the senatorial fight between the Republican candidate, James R. Tetler of Lawrence, and the present senator from this district.

Mr. Tetler was born in Lawrence in 1877, and has always made his home in that city. He is a successful business man, having been engaged as an employing plumber in Methuen for the past ten years. He has always been closely identified with the life and interests of his native city, serving his fellow citizens to the best of his ability in the Common Council for two years, and his more general constituency for a similar period in the State House of Representatives. He is a member of several fraternal lodges and organizations, among which are Monadnock Lodge, 145 I. O. O. F., Tuscan Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Lawrence Lodge, B. P. O. E., and the Merrimack Cricket club.

In his political life he has always closely adhered to the square deal, and as a young man of staunch Republican principles, and a clean record, coming before the voters as candidate for Senator, he deserves the hearty support of all local Republicans in Andover and in the entire district.

Andover and Worcester Tied

Phillips Academy and Worcester Academy played a tie game on Brothers Field Saturday, 7 to 7. The contest was the best of the season thus far. The visitors were out-rushed by Andover but held at critical points. The Andover line played well and was a stone wall at times, the visitors making most of their gains on wide end runs following a shift formation. The game became a punting duel the last half, with honors about even. Wiley was called upon to kick from placement three times during the game; each time the distance was over forty yards. He got his kicks away but they were a trifle short. In the third period Andover had Worcester on the run and had carried the ball from the 90 to the 40-yard line, and had they continued plunging instead of attempting a placement goal they would undoubtedly have scored another touchdown.

Nielsen, Thompson and Gaul played star games for Andover.

CASTLE SQUARE

"Butterfly Baronet," a new play, is at Castle Square. It is essentially a romantic story full of interest and dramatic novelty.

ST. JAMES

"The Blue Mouse," the well-known farce, penned by Clyde Fitch, and which has been played to good-sized audiences in the past, was given its initial presentation by a stock company in Boston Monday at the St. James theatre.

TREMONT

Blanche Ring, supported by Wm. P. Carleton and a merry company, began her second and final week in "The Wall Street Girl," at the Tremont theatre Monday evening when the vivacious star and her joyous associates delighted a large audience.

SHUBERT

The last two weeks of Gertrude Hoffmann's eminently successful engagement at the Shubert theatre in the revue of "Broadway to Paris" are now being played at that house. The last performances will take place on Saturday, November 9.

HOLLIS STREET

This is the closing week at the Hollis of Edgar Selwyn's comedy, "Coming Home to Roost." The unique piece has caused much merriment.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE

George Arliss, who Monday night began the third week of his engagement in "Disraeli," has since the opening of his visit made the Plymouth theatre the success centre of the city. Nothing but capacity houses have been the rule.

COLONIAL

The favor which "The Quaker Girl" has found in the eyes of playgoers is well exemplified in the size and enthusiasm of the audiences at the Colonial theatre. This is the ninth week of the engagement.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

There are but two weeks more for theatre-goers of Boston and New England to enjoy that unique operetta of happiness, "Little Boy Blue," at the Majestic theatre.

PARK

"Maggie Pepper's" ninth week in Boston began Monday evening with no signs of flagging interest either on the part of the performers or of the laughing spectators who filled the Park theatre.

SOCCER

Andover's supporters were encouraged last Saturday afternoon with the playing of the United in their league match with the Lawrence Olympics. The latter team played here early in the season and tied with the locals and have since been playing a strong game. Last Saturday, however, they had no chance against Andover and after the first ten minutes the result was never in doubt. The locals had it on the visitors in every department of the game and this so annoyed them that they indulged in some very rough playing, resulting in the disabling of Doherty by a former Andover player. The work of the referee was very poor. In spite of all this, Andover played to win and did win. There is still too much fancy foot-work in the open (and Page is the worst offender in this) and while it may show up the opposition, sometimes, goals alone count. The game:

From the kickoff the United were the most aggressive, and after about five minutes play, Renny scored the first goal. The Olympics now took up the pressure, Gilmartin making a splendid run down the field, only to be beaten by Ross, the back, who passed to Doig, who with a fine shot beat Haddon and secured the second goal. From this until the interval both teams played keenly, but no further score was registered. Half time, Andover United 2, Olympics 0.

On the re-start, play was very fast, both custodians being visited in turn. After a nice run, Deymond recovering sent across to Doherty who was successful in scoring the third goal for Andover. The Olympics now brought pressure to bear on the homesters, and an offside spoiled Winslow when well placed. Play became somewhat rough from this until the call of time, Doherty getting a kick that laid him out for some time. Andover played a much better combination game than the Olympics. The summary:

Andover United will meet the Clans of Lawrence tomorrow on the local grounds. Andover will play the same team as last Saturday and expects to win.

The Thistles will travel to Lynn to play the Thistles of that city. They will leave the square on the 12.50 car.

BOSTON THEATRE

A special production of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" with a cast chosen with excellent regard for their ability in this line of country impersonation opens a limited engagement at the Boston Theatre tomorrow afternoon (Saturday, Nov. 2nd). The majority of the people who attend the theatre do so to be taken out of themselves. They seek in the playhouse recreation and relaxation for their nervous organization. To this much of the success of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" is doubtless due, for as a celebrated dramatic critic of the middle states has expressed it, the play comes "like a crisp and refreshing autumn breeze, straight from the hills of New England bringing with it the sweet aroma of the woods and the homely music of the farmyard." As a rural drama it is quite unlike all other plays of its class. Its sentiment possesses a quaint and delicate unobtrusiveness that is quite its own. One great charm is its exceeding fidelity to nature. This appears even to its comedy, for the fun which it animates almost every moment of the play's action, although irresistibly funny, is never strained to the point of burlesque. The laughter that it invariably creates is of a kind that no one can regret.

Special prices will prevail during this engagement of one week. Matinees will be given daily.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

The last two weeks of Henry W. Savage's gay operetta offering, "Little Boy Blue," at the Majestic Theatre began last Monday evening, with the customary spirit of joy pervading the large audience that always attends these performances. Its charm is irresistible, and musically there is just enough variation from the haunting Viennese melodies by the introduction of unique arrangements of popular Scotch airs to lend the entire production a piquancy that one does not often find in musical presentations of this kind.

Such musical hits as "King of the Boulevards," "Love Never Dies," "The Crystal Ball," "Sandy McDougal," "Acroplane," "Angus Gordon Donald Douglas Evart John McKee," "Little Boy Blue," "When the Mists of the Night," "Kiss Me Dearest, Kiss Me, Do," "Two Cockatoos," and "The Gathering of the Clans," will be hummed and played a long time after the operetta has left town.

Popular prices prevail at the Wednesday matinee for the balance of the engagement, beginning tomorrow. There will be an extra matinee on Election Day, next Tuesday, November 5th, when the election returns will be read from the stage.

BOWLING

The Old Mill team defeated the Hacklers' team in their league game last Thursday by a total pinfall of 1282 to 1216, capturing three points to their opponents' one. ### CAMPAIGNING IN NEW YORK

Thaxter Eaton Writes of His Experiences as Demonstrator with A Tuberculosis Exhibit

Norwich, N. Y.,
October 29.

Dear Townsman:—

Perhaps some of my experiences this last month, while working for the erection of a tuberculosis hospital in Chenango County, may be of interest to my fellow townspeople. Possibly it hasn't been as strenuous and exciting work as if I had been campaigning for Roosevelt and Straus but one week, when I had been in five different places, spoken to nine audiences, packed and unpacked the State Department of Health's exhibit, carted it eight or ten miles between places (for most of the time I was many miles from a railroad), organized local committees, seen scores of people, and written up accounts of the meetings for the papers, I thought I had done a full week's work. During the last three years the State Department and the State Charities Aid Association have been waging similar campaigns all over the state and the supervisors in twenty-one counties have voted to build sanatoriums and now the work is being pushed into the smaller rural counties where anything that is going to increase the tax rate even a little is carefully scrutinized and has to prove its case. Sentiment almost everywhere has been favorable however, and we hope that within a month the Board of Supervisors will have acted favorably on the proposition for we have so stirred up their constituents that inaction on their part is likely to get them into trouble.

Leaving the White Mountains just as soon as the last golf tournament was over, and the news sent in to the N. Y. Sun, I had a few busy hours in Andover and Boston before boarding the Fall River boat train. From New York City our route lay through the Delaware Water Gap to Binghamton and thence to the little town of New Berlin, where a notorious bank robbery occurred not many months ago from which the town is but slowly recovering. The people there are evidently living in the future for when we inquired for the school house, we were directed up a hill to where a new building was going up! We were glad that we weren't trying to raise any money for everybody felt poor although they have got back sixty cents on every dollar.

At Smyrna, the second stop on my itinerary, the band turned out and played for us and in the absence of their leader claimed they made such discords, that everyone between the hall and the street corner where they were playing under the arc light, would have rushed into the hall for self protection.

Finding the meeting at Plymouth not very well advertised, I had the fire alarm rung which consisted in ringing the church bells in unison! I trust it didn't deceive anyone but I thought that as long as the taxpayers were paying a little something to have the exhibit carted over from Smyrna, they at least ought to know that something was going on!

The town with the classic name of East Pharsalia—otherwise known as Podunk—proved to be but little larger than Plymouth with a population of less than 150, but it boasted three churches, including one Mormon meeting place, but I doubt if it supported any of them. A similar unfortunate state of affairs prevailed almost everywhere, unless perchance one or more had been abandoned or converted into a grange hall. It was here that I had my first experience trudging about the village streets at night carrying a lantern. The hall in the hotel (which as elsewhere still retains the name though guests are taken only as a matter of accommodation) was only three inches higher than the exhibit and was reached by a most precipitous flight of narrow stairs. The audience sat on rude benches without backs, but were evidently used to it.

Boarding the stage (which if you have the time and patience will take you to almost any part of the country) I arrived in Pitcher late one evening. Most of the distance had been travelled in the dark with nothing visible but the white horse ahead, but the conversation hadn't lagged and the driver (whose ambition it had been to drive a stage but who had gotten pretty tired of it inside a week) often made me laugh, particularly when he gave as his reason for voting for President Taft the fact that the Republican party had been in power so long that if beaten at the polls they would fight to retain their hold on the government! Evidently Sam was a man of peace even if he had just sold an auto which often went back on him but which he never had pulled in until after dark! Some day the new owner across the street, who cannot make it run at all, will demand a reckoning and then there may be war and Sam will cease to chuckle.

Knowing that there was to be a conference of the six men at work in the different counties, together with the leaders of the State Charities Aid Association, somewhere over Sunday, I routed one of the men out of bed the next morning and learned over the telephone that we were due in Albany. I had just time to pack up and take the stage which brought the letter calling me there, and after journeying most of the day reached my destination about 2 a.m.

Back again at Norwich, which had two representatives at Phillips last year and which is the county seat and my headquarters for the month, I started off on another trip arranging for meetings in various places. A week later I again took the 20-mile trip by stage to Pitcher and there as everywhere learned of numerous cases of the disease. The majority of the people I talked with had had some experience with it in their own families. The next night the stage driver reached the end of his route an hour earlier than usual so as to hear my talk! From there I swung round through Lincolnton where I sacrificed a brush for the good of my health, not finding anything else with which to prop up the window and coming off in the morning without it. But as I tell the school children, it is better to lose something occasionally rather than to fail to keep the windows open!

At the meeting there I was introduced as "looking as if I had ability enough to make the subject interesting" and also as "laboring under the State Department," as if I didn't have enough on my shoulders! From South Otselec, where is located the largest fish line factory in the world, I jumped to McDonough for my fourth stop in as many successive days. Hastening to the school with a letter from abroad in my pocket unread, I found the teacher wanted the children to come down at 2:30, which gave me just about one hour in which to set up the exhibit, and I assure you it isn't any slight undertaking. I accomplished it, however, but decided that the woman bending over her sewing machine late at night, representing overwork as a predisposing cause of tuberculosis wasn't "in it" with me, and so knocked off work for some hours thereafter. Sunday morning, I am sorry to say, I had to be on the road and arrived in Preston just in time to announce the meeting before church let out! From there the exhibit and I rode into Norwich on a milk team, for where a town doesn't support a cheese or butter factory, the milk has to be drawn to the nearest shipping point or condenser, and very frequently you see the women driving. After a busy week here working up five meetings, I expect to be transferred to Columbia County which will probably give me a chance to come home and vote. The work certainly calls for a lot of activity and brings one into contact with all sorts of people, and whether or not a hospital is ever built, I guess is well worth while.

THE CLOSE OF THE CAMPAIGN

The next issue of the Townsman will tell a story already told at that time in daily newspapers, of the result of the national election. It will tell also in further detail the result of local contests. The last appeal to the voters will be made in the coming two days. The activity of three parties this year adds to the complexity of the situation and places an element of doubt upon the result.

The writer of this column has seen active political service for many years, but never has it seemed so difficult to forecast results all along the line, as at this time. Nationally, there is no question about the increasing strength of President Taft. During the past few days it has come rapidly, marked in many ways, and unmistakable in its volume. The campaign of the President himself has been dignified, courageous, inspiring. He has stood manfully by his convictions, and has set them forth in clear and vigorous language through the press, and through interviews. His defeat, we believe, means more to the people of New England than to any other section of the country. His actions have meant more during the past few years to this particular section than to any other section of the country, and it is almost impossible to believe that further aggression upon the great manufacturing interests of Massachusetts, will be allowed by those people who have seen this business grow to its present tremendous proportions, so that it is today the envy of all other sections of the country.

There is no question about what is to follow if such a change shall come, and the complete line and theory advanced by the Democratic platform and Democratic orders is put into actual effect. The candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt has had some impetus also, largely because of sympathy for him and the fervor with which every incident in which he is a part, is taken up by those who follow him. Close observers, however, believe that the real contest is, as it has been for many years, a contest between the Republican and Democratic candidates.

The local contests are closer at hand, and yet are nearly as difficult to analyze as the national contest is. For Congress, Mr. Rogers has made an effective campaign with promise of success that is surprising to some people who have believed that his Democratic opponent would run away with the election. Such is not the case. It may be a close fight with either one winning, but Mr. Rogers has certainly made striking progress, which gives to Republicans a great deal of confidence that he will be the next Congressman from this district. It will be a fine choice, and will assure to the district strong representation for all of her interests which are alike important to manufacturers and laboring men.

The contest for the United States Senate to be settled in the next Legislature, is being given very serious

Editorial Cinders

The death of Vice-President Sherman is the death of your Vice-President, of your representative who stands next to the highest office in the gift of the American people. He couldn't have reached that place had he not been a clean man, a strong man, a high character man, and all these mark the life of the dead Vice-President. He was not a great man, in the sense that that word is frequently used, but the world isn't made up of great men, but rather it is the commonplace who do things, who are practical everyday workers and become through that work practical everyday leaders, accomplishing benefits for their own immediate neighbors. Vice-President Sherman, frequently leading out into larger fields of activity, stands forth as a type of the American citizen, who has combined to make the country what it is, far more than have the few great leaders. The nation has a duty to mourn the passing on of such a character as his, and at this particular time it comes with peculiar force to the nation because of the stress of political activity.

There is little of local interest this week for comment, and if there were more, it would be rather difficult in

Historical Society Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Andover Historical society was held on Tuesday evening. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Dr. Charles E. Abbott; vice-presidents, Mrs. S. N. Carter, N. E. Bartlett; secretary, Miss Agnes Parker; treasurer, George Abbott; councilors, W. A. Trow, Rev. C. C. Carpenter, Mrs. Frank T. Carlson, Mrs. M. S. McCurdy, Miss Belle Potterfield; librarian, John V. Holt.

An interesting paper was read by Dr. Abbott on "Old Time Customs," which will be found on page two.

A party of thirty-three members of the Natural History society enjoyed a visit on Saturday afternoon to the historic Kittredge, Bradstreet and Phillips Brooks mansions in North Andover. All who have seen these old houses know of the vast store of relics and valuables contained in them, and can appreciate that Saturday's outing was a delightful one to all who attended.

attention in Andover as in every other section of the state. The candidate for Senator is one of those quiet, clear-headed, middle-class business men who are trustworthy to the highest degree, and are honored wisely by the Republican party in this district very frequently. Mr. Tetler deserves loyal support from the voters of Andover, for he is close to the rank and file, as well as thoroughly reliable in all of his action and promise.

One man's idea upon the local representative situation is as good as another's, but there is nothing at the present moment to suggest any other result than the well-deserved reelection of Representative Eames. Mr. Burns has conducted an extremely quiet campaign, but it may nevertheless prove effective. It has been presumed that he is not as strong as he was a year ago, but the votes will tell whether this is so or not. The problem of Mr. Boutwell's candidacy is not easy to understand. It is understood that he is not going to confine himself strictly to the terms of his letter in which he announced that he should make no appeals for votes, for he is announced as a speaker at the Progressive rally on Monday.

Without any comment upon either of his two opponents, those who have followed the career of Mr. Eames, who know his record which has been so widely advertised by "the only perfect man in Andover," have much reason to be extremely pleased at the service he has rendered as representative. It has been quiet but effective. His action during the last session of the Legislature on many of the questions for which he is criticized will meet with the heartiest approval of many of the voters of Andover, certainly if they understand the matters in question. As Chairman of the Committee of Agriculture, representing a town which has a deal of agriculture in it, he has been an effective force in doing good things not only in agricultural matters, but for the health and prosperity of the entire state. It is not expected that a community which recognizes worth as Andover does, will go back on Mr. Eames at this time, and we don't believe it will.

It is a critical time in the nation, whether the viewpoint may be from that of the Republican or the Democrat. In critical times the voice of all the people is demanded as at no other time. Let the vote next Tuesday in Andover be not only a frank expression but a full expression, in which every man declares his preference for every office from the top of the ticket to the bottom. Good government will ultimately follow universal action. There may be mistakes made in the long march through political activity, but generally speaking the action of the great body through its majority is likely to be sound, if questions are fully understood, if honest judgment is given to their consideration, and if a fair mind does the final weighing.

the face of political activity to take up other local questions. We cannot refrain, however, from a word of query about the activity of the Highway Department around the public square. To a layman it doesn't look like good work. It looks like a further complication of a situation already badly complicated. The library is one of the ugliest buildings ever put together with brick and mortar. Already tilted, it is to be still further elevated by work in which it would have seemed possible to help out the ugly lines of an ugly public building. There is no blame for this situation attached to any particular person, but before the work had started, one cannot help wishing that further consideration had been given to its possible better solution.

The approaching Exeter football game doesn't attract quite as much attention as in some other years, also because of political activity. The boys themselves are getting quite a bit interested in politics and the straw vote which is now under way will probably mark a rather interesting situation in Phillips Academy. It won't measure real political preference in many cases because it is understood that a large vote will be given to Roosevelt because of the membership of his son in the school.

Reading at Abbot Academy

"An afternoon with J. M. Barrie," is the subject of a reading of unusual interest to be given by Charles F. Underhill next Thursday afternoon at half-past three in Davis Hall. Mr. Underhill has not read before at Abbot Academy, but he has proved a very popular reader at Yale, at Princeton, at Vassar and at Wellesley, as well as at many leading schools, and comes very highly recommended. He has a remarkably pleasant voice and manner and very great skill in characterization.

His reading Thursday will be from the following short stories of Barrie: "A Lassie with a Lad's Name," "How Gavin Birse put it to Margot Lounie," "A Race for a Wife," and "A Tilly-loo Scandal."

The lecture will be open to any friends of the school, the admission fee being fifty cents.

Rev. Clark Carter spoke at the evening meeting at the South church on Sunday, his subject being "Massachusetts Prisons."

The Political Rallies

Numerous as are the social functions going on in Andover just now, the chief interest for the next few days will center about the coming election and the rallies and stump-speaking incident thereto.

According to the schedule of rallies for the next three or four days, Andover voters will have no lack of opportunity to acquaint themselves with the issues of the campaign from all standpoints. The Democrats led off the last night with their public meeting.

On Saturday evening at 7:45 o'clock sharp, in the town hall, the Republicans will hold a rousing rally, with Attorney General James M. Swift, John Jacob Rogers, candidate for congressman, Selectman Harry M. Eames and Hon. John N. Cole as the speakers. The addresses are sure to be excellent and a large attendance is expected. Ladies will be cordially welcomed to any part of the hall. The music for the occasion will be furnished by the Andover Brass Band. Owing to the necessity of keeping another engagement in Lowell the same evening, Mr. Rogers will be the first speaker.

On Monday evening there will be a Progressive rally in the town hall, with Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard University, Edward W. Boutwell, candidate for representative from Andover, and Dr. George L. Perin of Boston as speakers.

On the same evening a meeting will be held in Abbott Village hall at seven o'clock by the Democrats, at which Joseph L. Burns, candidate for representative, and others will speak.

At eight o'clock in the same hall a Progressive rally will take place with Edward W. Boutwell as the chief speaker.

In Honor of Mr. Shipman

Over 200 members were present at the prayer meeting and preparatory lecture at the South church on Wednesday evening, the last mid-week service at which Mr. Shipman will be present for several months. After the meeting he was given a letter shower, the large number of good-bye letters and good wishes sent from all parts of the parish being presented to him by Mr. Francis in a basket very appropriately decorated with pansies. The affair was entirely informal and was planned by several of the ladies of the church to express in a simple and quiet manner the regret of the church and parish and the whole town in general at his leaving Andover, even though it be for a short time, and their best wishes for the coming months. A beautiful vase of chrysanthemums was also given to him by the Courtous Circle.

At the close of the evening refreshments of cocoa sandwiches and cake were served.

Lowell Minister Called to South Church

At a meeting of the South church held last week it was unanimously voted to extend an invitation to Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of Lowell to become minister in charge during Mr. Shipman's leave of absence. No action in regard to the matter has yet been taken by the parish, but a meeting will be held for that purpose next week.

Dr. Cutler, to whom a call was previously sent, was obliged to decline as he has accepted the position of pastor of the Union church in Waban, Newton. He will enter upon his duties there within a short time.

The Helping Hand Fair

The Helping Hand society of the Free church conducted one of their successful sales and entertainments last Friday afternoon and evening. In spite of the stormy weather there was a large attendance and a good-sized sum was realized as a result of their efforts. The primary object of the sale was to clear off the debt recently incurred by the laying of granolithic walks at the church, and this was accomplished and a substantial balance left as well.

Aprons and fancy articles, candy, cake, tea and ice cream were on sale and there was also a mystery table to tempt purchasers.

An enjoyable program of readings and music was carried out in the evening, to which Miss Ethel Lawson, soprano, of Danvers, William Anderson, bass, and Perley F. Gilbert, reader, contributed.

The various tables were in charge of the following ladies: Aprons, Mrs. Cuthbert, Mrs. Dear, Mrs. McKenzie. Fancy, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Gillespie. Candy, Mrs. Isabella May, Mrs. Kiddoch, Mrs. Geo. May, Cake, Mrs. McMeekin, Mrs. Falconer. Mystery, Mrs. Leslie. Tea, Mrs. Dick. Ice cream, Donald Lawrie, Alex McKenzie.

A Brilliant Reception

Receiving amidst a profusion of chrysanthemums and autumn foliage, Mr. and Mrs. David Shaw welcomed a large number of their Andover friends at a very delightful reception held at their beautiful and well appointed home on Main street last Saturday evening. The affair was in honor of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess, but few of the guests were aware of the fact, and the occasion was therefore marked by a simplicity and hearty cordiality which made it doubly enjoyable.

About two hundred guests attended, the larger part of them being Andover friends with several others coming from Winchester, Haverhill, Lawrence and Boston. The house was very attractively decorated by J. H. Playdon, an abundance of chrysanthemums and palms being used with excellent effect. The reception room was done in lavender, the dining room and parlor in yellow, the lower hall in white. The upper hall, where, from behind a screen of palms the Columbian orchestra furnished music throughout the evening, was decorated with autumn leaves.

Refreshments were served to the guests in the dining room by Caterer Dill of Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw were married in Ballardvale twenty-five years ago by Rev. John J. Blair, former pastor of the South church. Coming directly to Andover, they have since made their home here, living for the past nine years in their Main Street house. Both Mr. and Mrs. Shaw have been and are prominent in all phases of the life of the town, both social and philanthropic, and in church activity as well.

Held Hallowe'en Party

A very pleasant Hallowe'en party was given by Dorothea and Elizabeth Flagg daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Burton S. Flagg, on Thursday afternoon.

Those present were Sallie Bartlett, Sarah Bodwell, Lidwine Curran, Frances Flagg, Margaret French, Beatrice Goff, Caroline Hincks, Dorothy Jealous, Hildegard Kunhardt, Marjory Sherman, Mary Shipman, Emily Thompson, Frances Thompson and Helen Walker.

ELECTION TUESDAY

Presidential Candidates Will Call Out Large Vote. Amendments to the Constitution

The polls in both precincts in Andover will open next Tuesday, November 5, the day of the national election, at 6 a.m., and may be closed as early as 4 p.m., if so voted.

The ballots for the election are unusually large, and in addition to the names of electors for president and vice-president for the Prohibition, Socialist, Labor, Progressive, Republican and Democratic parties, and the usual state ticket, the voters will also have an opportunity to vote on four questions, two of which concern amendments to the constitution, a third in regard to the adoption by the town of an act of the general court, and a fourth, a question about the establishment of an independent agricultural school in Essex county.

The first proposed amendment relates to the disfranchising of persons who have been convicted of certain offenses, consisting of corrupt practices in respect to elections. The question comes up under a resolve of the Legislature during the past session, that the article be submitted to the people for approval and ratification, and if made an amendment to the constitution will disqualify from voting, all persons found guilty of corrupt practices in regard to elections.

The question on the ballot concerning the second proposed amendment will read, "Shall the proposed amendment to the constitution relative to the taxation of wild or forest lands be approved and ratified?" The article of amendment referred to reads, "Full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the general court to prescribe for wild or forest lands such methods of taxation as will develop and conserve the forest resources of the commonwealth."

The third question on the ballot is whether the town shall accept Chap. 503 of the Acts of 1912 relating to the pensioning of laborers in the employ of cities and towns. The act reads:

"Section 1. Any laborer in the employ of a city or town which accepts this act, who has reached the age of sixty years and has been in such employ for a period of not less than twenty-five years and has become physically or mentally incapacitated for labor, and any laborer in the employ of such city or town who has been in such employ for a period of not less than fifteen years and has become physically or mentally incapacitated for labor by reason of any injury received in the performance of his duties for such city or town may, at his request, and in cities, with the approval of the mayor, or in towns, with the approval of the selectmen, be retired from service, and if so retired he shall receive from the city or town for the remainder of his life, an annual pension equal to one half of the average annual compensation paid to him as a laborer during the two years next prior to his retirement. Any laborer in the employ of such city or town who has reached the age of sixty-five years and has been in such employ for a period of not less than twenty-five years shall be retired from service and shall receive from the city or town an annual pension computed in the manner hereinbefore set forth."

The fourth question is: "Shall Essex county establish an independent agricultural school?"

If this proposition gets a majority vote, the law as passed last year (Chapter 587, Acts of 1912) requires that such a school shall immediately be established. Provision is made that $75,000 may be raised by bond issue for the land, buildings and equipment. Half the running expenses is to be borne by the state, provided the State Board of Education approves the school as to its location and administration. The other half of the operating expenses is to be met by county taxation, the whole amount for this purpose from state and county being limited to $25,000 a year.

The Barnstormers

As the town hall has been engaged by another organization for November 26th, the Barnstormers have been obliged to postpone the presentation of their first plays, "Gringoire," a French play of the time of Louis XI, and "Time Is Money," until Tuesday, December 3.

Members paying their dues before November 15, to the treasurer, Percival Dowd, will be entitled to reserved seats, and these reservations may be made at the Andover Bookstore on November 26, from 8 a.m. on. In order to provide for families and friends who may wish to sit together, and at the same time to make the distribution of tickets as equitable as possible, the following regulations have been made:

1. No season tickets will be sold, nor will any seats be reserved for the season, but for one night only.

2. In order to get reserved seat tickets the receipt, or receipts, for the paid fee must be presented at the Bookstore.

3. Each membership entitles the holder to two seats for the performance, and, while several receipts may be presented together by one person, not more than ten seats will be issued to any one applicant at any one time.

The two plays have been cast and rehearsals are already well under way.

The funeral was held on Monday from the late home and interment was in Spring Grove cemetery.

Italian Charged With Setting Fire Acquitted

Erzins Umario, a Sicilian, recently discharged from the employ of the Smith & Dove Company, was arrested last week, charged with setting the fire at the mill dust-house on Monday, October 21. He was brought before Judge Stone on Saturday afternoon and given a hearing.

Mr. Milligan, deputy fire marshal of Boston, was present for the prosecution.

Roy H. Bradford of the Smith & Dove office testified that the man was discharged on the morning of the day of the fire, because he objected to his transfer from his job in the dust-house to another part of the mill. Mr. Bradford said that the defendant received his pay at the office immediately after his discharge, and that about half-past five in the afternoon he noticed the defendant going through the mill yard towards the dust-house.

The testimony of three children, Mary, Dorothy and Gertrude Sullivan, was also introduced, showing that they saw the man near the tank in the mill yard a few minutes before the half-past five whistle blew. Robert Black, an office boy in the employ of the company testified that he saw the defendant leave the Andover car at the Lawrence transfer station at 6.45 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

Judge Stone then examined the prisoner, who professed to understand or to speak no English. He replied in answer to the judge's questions, that he went to work as usual on Monday morning and left his work because he did not like it and was finally discharged. After getting his pay he went to Lawrence, came back home, and returned to the city at two o'clock, went to the Nickel Theatre, returned to Andover a little before five o'clock, saw his uncle and aunt, had supper and then returned to Lawrence where he stayed all night.

At this point the judge decided that he would proceed no further without calling in more witnesses, so the case was continued until five o'clock.

The case was continued at five o'clock and again carried over to Thursday evening. At that time the defendant was represented by Attorney Thomas Delaney of Lawrence. Testimony was heard from Mr. Bodwell, Chief Hardy of the fire department, Alexander Brown, foreman of the batch-house, James Keefe, the day watchman, and Walter I. Morse, Owir-- to an uncertainty in regard to certain points in the case and a diversity in the testimony, Judge Stone finally discharged the defendant.

Baptist Annual Rollcall

The Baptist church held its annual rollcall last Wednesday evening. A large number sat down to supper, where the tables almost groaned with a weight of good things heartily enjoyed by all.

The service which followed was opened with singing of hymns, prayer and a vocal selection, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," rendered by Mrs. Frederic G. Moore and Mrs. Mary Jackson. A large number of the 129 members answered to the rollcall by word or letter, all in a very thankful spirit. It was voted that special greetings be sent to the absent members.

Expression of good wishes was also sent by the church to Rev. F. R. Shipman and his wife, at the reception held after the South church prayer meeting.

Mrs. Moore then sang a solo, "The Master Passeth By," after which Mr. Lombard spoke a few minutes on the theme, "God is seeking worshippers." The thank-offering was over sixty-two dollars. The service closed with the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The Democratic Rally

About sixty voters attended the Democratic rally held in the town hall on Thursday evening, chiefly in the interest of Dennis E. Halley, candidate for re-election as senator from this district.

The first speaker was ex-Mayor Leonard of Lawrence, who confined himself solely to a plea for votes for Senator Halley, on the ground of his record and in view of the critical situation which the country is said to be facing.

Senator Halley was himself the next speaker. He stated that he had not worked for and in fact had not desired the renomination, but upon the advice of his friends he decided to stand as a candidate. He then drew a comparison between his own record in the Legislature and his opponent's.

The last speaker was Fred W. Mansfield, attorney for the American Federation of Labor. He also urged the voters to support the Democratic candidates, and especially show their appreciation of Senator Halley's work by re-electing him. He discussed the tariff and the high cost of living and declared that under a Democratic administration the condition of the workingman would be greatly bettered; that all progressive measures passed in the Legislature have been fostered by Democrats, and that every plank in the Progressive Party today was stolen from Democratic beliefs and principals.

THE COMING CONFERENCE

Forty-Fifth Annual Gathering of the Woman's Board of Missions to Be Held Here Nov. 12-14

The forty-fifth annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions will be held in the South church, Andover, on Wednesday and Thursday, November 13 and 14. There will be a preliminary meeting of delegates and branch officers on Tuesday afternoon, which all interested workers will be welcome to attend. This is one of three Foreign Mission Boards which Congregational women maintain in the United States, with headquarters in Boston, Chicago and San Francisco respectively, working strictly in co-operation with the American Board. Their special province is to develop interest among the women of the United States in behalf of their sisters in foreign lands who have not received the Gospel; and they also seek through societies for the young to train the children in the knowledge and love of missionary work.

The Woman's Board of Missions, Boston, was organized on the first Tuesday of January, 1868, when about forty ladies, representing the Congregational churches of Boston and vicinity, met in the Old South Chapel, Freeman Place, to consider the subject of organization in connection with the American Board. Before the close of January the society was in active operation. It was a day of beginnings—not one missionary in the field, not an auxiliary society to rest upon. By February 3, over $500 had been raised in the Boston churches, and on that day the first missionary was adopted—Mrs. Mary K. Edwards, already under appointment by the American Board to the Zulu Mission, and still in active service.

The society came to its first annual meeting in Mount Vernon church, Boston, January 5, 1869. It was a stormy day and the street well nigh impassable; but more than six hundred ladies had come not only from suburban towns but from other states. An income of $5,033.13 was reported by the treasurer; seven missionaries were in the field and eleven Bible readers adopted. One hundred and twenty-nine life members were enrolled on the books, and those who loved the cause thanked God and took courage.

The need of convenient centres early suggested the idea of uniting societies into Branches, each Branch to comprise not less than twenty auxiliaries and mission circles. Philadelphia Branch was the first one organized, in 1871; others followed and there are now twenty-three Branches—two in Maine, four state Branches, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and New York; one composed of the societies of the New Jersey Association, which includes eastern Pennsylvania, Baltimore, Washington and a little corner of Virginia; three in Connecticut and thirteen in Massachusetts, with one Conference Association.

This complete organization—wheels within wheels—has been of inestimable value in the work. This is the twelfth year that the plan of United Study has been followed in a large number of societies. The text book for the present year, "China's New Day," is meeting with great favor and more than 3,000 have already gone out from the Board rooms, and the first edition of 50,000 is already exhausted by the denominational Boards. Missionary news from different quarters of the globe is sought and given, and into many a meeting the returned missionary coming home for needed rest yet awake to the opportunity, carries the live coal of reality and personal interest which touches other hearts and kindles a fire of resolution and enthusiasm which continues to burn and spread its light.

Within the twenty-three Branches there are embraced senior auxiliaries, children's mission circles, Cradle Rolls and Contributing societies (including College Christian Associations, Societies of Christian Endeavor and Sunday Schools). The fields in which the work has been done include Micronesia, Japan, China, India, Ceylon, Turkey, Spain, Austria, Africa and Mexico. The Board maintains one hundred and thirty missionaries and assistant missionaries, with a large force of Bible women, native teachers, colleges, boarding, high and day schools and kindergartens, hospitals and dispensaries.

The work has been continually expanding and during the forty-four years of the Board's life, not including the present year, its income has amounted to $5,052,240.62, not including receipts for literature.

At the annual meeting there will be reports of the various departments of the Board's work and addresses by the Woman's Board Deputation, Miss Margaret Slattery, Rev. Enoch F. Bell, A. B. C. F. M.; Dr. Kate C. Woodhull, China; Miss Alice S. Brown, China; Mrs. R. S. M. Emrich, Turkey; Miss Isabella M. Blake, Turkey; Mrs. Charles N. Ransom, Africa; Mrs. W. O. Ballantine, India; Miss Edith Gates, India, and others.

Home for Aged Meeting

At the annual meeting of the corporation of the Andover Home for Aged People held on Tuesday, Oct. 22, the following officers were elected for 1912-13: President, F. S. Boutwell; first vice-president, Dr. E. M. E. Sanborn; second vice-president, Miss Ellen G. Ellis; treasurer, David Shaw; clerk, Mrs. M. S. McCurdy. Managers for three years, J. H. Campion, J. Warren Berry, Mrs. David Middleton and Mrs. F. E. Gleason.

The list of annual members of this institution is not as large as it should be. The fee is only one dollar and there are many citizens who would cheerfully contribute this amount if they didn't forget it, so if on some bright morning one of the managers meeting you on the street or at the market, gently reminds you of this obligation, don't hesitate to part your dollar for it means a great deal. In the first place it shows your interest in those who find the need of such a haven of rest. In the second place the dollar is needed to help pay the bills, for like other homes it costs money to run it; and in the third place, this dollar entitles you to a vote at the annual meeting when the officers are elected. Sometime there may be a personal interest in this matter, and by the political methods so much in vogue a pull will be in order.

Two years ago an appeal was made through the Townsman and about 500 circular letters sent through the mail. Only about fifteen per cent responded. It should have been at least fifty per cent. An appeal for funds would not be necessary if our friends would visit the Home, talk with Mrs. Lewis, the matron, and the old ladies there and learn first hand in regard to the work being carried on; see the happy faces and hear the kind words of those who are now receiving its protection and benefits.

Most of the subscriptions received last year were for house repairs and house furnishings. Only $43.62 was subscribed for general expenses.

The Home is distinctly an Andover institution and deserves the support of Andover people. We need a larger income. Will you help?

Subscriptions will be thankfully received and promptly acknowledged by the Treasurer, David Shaw, 85 Main Street.

It is a great pleasure to add the names of those whose interest in the Home has materialized during the summer in gifts of fruit, flowers, vegetables and books: Mr. and Mrs. David Shaw, Mrs. J. W. Smith, Miss Ballard, Mrs. Clark Carter and daughters, Mrs. Whitlock, Mrs. Carlton, Mrs. Butterfield, Dr. Sanborn, Mrs. George Ripley, Mrs. Emily Carter, Miss Ellen Abbott, Mrs. Wm. Phelps, Mrs. Draper, Mrs. Alden, Miss Ellis, Mr. Scott, Mrs. Frank E. Gleason, and Rev. C. C. Carpenter. The Treasurer made a full and detailed report of the finances of the corporation. The total income received from all sources for the year amounted to $1,518.65. One new Life Member, Mrs. Warren F. Draper, was added to the list and a bequest under the will of Miss Charlotte S. Abbott of $500 was also received.

The invested funds amounted to $33,000.

The Open Door to Long Distance Calls

Sometimes the magic of a long distance call will open a door that otherwise might remain closed. Big men make big deals by telephone. The telephone intimates that time is precious and that glittering generalities may be omitted. It enables the dealer to concentrate upon the material facts presented. It protects him from bores. That's why he likes it.

If written confirmation of his oral approval is desired, that can be obtained simply by asking that it be forwarded. Try it and satisfy yourself.

what our government had to do to

The Epworth League held a merry

black cats, pumpkins and corn making a fine display. Refreshments were served. A large number were present, seventeen of whom were masked and wore costumes of rare and won-

A successful and enjoyable Hal-of the Congregational church Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society. Many wore costumes of mysterious and unique design, and ghostly figures flitted about. In the height of the merry-making, Mrs. Haynes, gorgeously attired, entered and introduced her friend "Miss Ferguson," who accompanied her, clad in sombre black garments of modest style, their arrival making the hit of the evening.

In the peanut race Miss Lizzie Roland won first prize and Miss Izetta Filibrown won second prize. The room was prettily and appropriately decorated. The games were heartily enjoyed and refreshments were served by the efficient social committee of the society.

Annual Fair and Entertainment

The annual fair and entertainment of the Congregational Ladies' Aid society will be held in Bradley Hall next Friday evening, November 8.
Fancywork, aprons, and other useful articles will be on sale. The mystery table will appeal to the young people.
An exceptionally fine entertainment has been prepared, consisting of a vocal solo by Mrs. Edward York and singing by a double quartet of ladies and gentlemen, and a bright little farce entitled "The Bargain Counter," by the following strong cast of local talent: Mrs. Marsh Marigold, Mrs.
Joseph Cummings, Miss Veronica
Speedwell, Miss Etta Greenwood,
Miss Daisy Craine, Mrs. Irving
Shaw, Mrs. Crosston, Mrs. C. W.
Richardson, Rose Champion, Miss Bertha Farrell.
Everybody is cordially invited to come. Admission, adults 15 cents; children, 10 cents.

The Punchard football team defeated the Johnson High school of North Andover on Wednesday afternoon on the Cricket field by the score of 35 to 0. The visitors were badly handicapped by the absence of several of their regular players.

The meeting next week of the Woman's Guild of Christ church will be of special interest. There will be reports from those who attended the Lowell Conference of the Women's Auxiliary, and also an account of the Junior Auxiliary.

Voters of the Fifth District--

In the approaching election—one of the most important since the Civil War,—you will be called upon to elect a Congressman to represent you in Washington,— your only direct voice in the National government.

YOUR JUDGMENT MUST NOT BE CLOUDED by promises made to gain votes, by money lavishly expended in your town, or by efforts to befog the issues.

The real contest is between Mr. Rogers and Mr.
O'Sullivan, the Democratic nominee, and the only effect of the candidacy of Mr. Osgood, until recently also a Democrat and now running on nomination papers, is to promote the chances of Mr. O'Sullivan. During the past week Mr. O'Sullivan has publicly spoken in behalf of Mr. Osgood and Mr. Osgood has publicly spoken in defense of Mr. O'Sullivan. AND THIS COMPOSITE CANDIDACY HAS BEEN DIRECTING A PERSONAL AND BITTER ATTACK UPON MR. ROGERS.

The election of Mr. O'Sullivan could have but one result, identified as he is with the Fitzgerald and Lomasney machine in Boston and the Casey, Crowley and Cronin machine in Lowell—the further building up of a POWERFUL DEMOCRATIC MACHINE IN THE STATE.

Mr. Rogers enjoys equally the confidence of Republicans and Progressives in the District. Herbert L. Chapman, Roosevelt delegate from this District to the National convention, said in a public address at Lowell, October 22: "I am for Roosevelt first, last and always, but in this Congressional fight I am for John Jacob Rogers. He is progressive enough for me."

The Methuen Transcript of October 25 said:
"The Methuen Progressive Club has unanimously endorsed John Jacob Rogers of Lowell for Congress."

The position of Mr. Rogers upon important questions is unassailable. He is for the reduction of the tariff on every schedule to the lowest point consistent with the true protection of American labor. He is for the extension of government supervision of the trusts and the strict enforcement of the Pure Food laws. He is for an effective parcels post, an extension of rural free delivery and a more practical development of the Department of Agriculture.

HE BELIEVES THAT AT THE COMING SESSION OF CONGRESS LEGISLATION MUST BE ENACTED TO BRING RELIEF TO THOSE WHO ARE BEARING THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

We appeal to you to view the situation dispassionately. CAN YOU AFFORD TO GIVE THE FIFTH DISTRICT INTO THE HANDS OF THE DEMOCRACY?

Vote for John Jacob Rogers.

The Democrat will be at the polls. Word has been passed to him far and near. WILL YOU ALSO COME OUT AND VOTE?

ARE YOU PREJUDICED AGAINST ADVERTISING?

Most successful business men of today recognize that advertising is a necessity, and when well authenticated FACTS are set forth in a dignified manner regarding an article they know that the sensible and fair-minded public will respond in a generous way.

The "ENGLISH HEMORRHOID TREATMENT" is the logical outcome of the practice and experience of a New York physician, covering many years of trial and experiment.
So successful was he with this treatment, in his own practice and also in the practice of some of his professional friends, he established a laboratory for the wholesale preparation of this remedy with a view of introducing it to the afflicted public.

To accomplish this purpose, paid-for advertising was necessary—as it could not be expected that publishers would exploit a business proposition without compensation—no matter how beneficial the exploited article might be to subscribers. This is why you will, in future, see advertisement of the "ENGLISH HEMORRHOID TREATMENT" in Andover and other papers.

There is one point we desire to impress on the mind of every reader, and that is the absolute sincerity and truthfulness of every statement made by us to the public, by means of advertising. We believe the "ENG-LISH - HEMORRHOID TREAT-MENT" is sane and practical; that it will soon be used in hospitals throughout the country and will be prescribed by many good physicians and used in their practice.

The "ENGLISH HEMORRHOID TREATMENT" is for sale at 33 drug stores in Andover, North Andover, Lawrence, South Lawrence, Methuen, and Ballard Vale.

Every druggist has a supply of booklets on his counter for free distribution.

The booklet is a very well written treatise on Hemorrhoids.

If interested, send to your nearest druggist for a booklet, or write direct to the English Pharmacal Laboratories, Inc., 1531 Broadway, New York, and they will send you one. If you are a sufferer it will interest you and perhaps you may later find that it was "worth its weight in gold" to
you. ASK YOUR DRUGGIST!
ASK YOUR DOCTOR!
